

7 Final Presentation

Assignment Details

For the final presentation, you will need to prepare a talk covering the article that you choose to do your executive summary on. The talk will be given in class during a randomly chosen time, starting next class. In other words, you do not know if you are going next week or the week after.

Requirements:

1. The talk should be between 5-10 minutes. If the talk is outside this window, points will be deducted.
2. You will be graded on the following presentation skills: volume, speed, eye-contact and poise (including hands and posture).
3. The presentation will be graded for readability, organization, clarity and content
4. Answer questions similar to the executive summary: What did the people do and why did they do it?

For the listener:

- The speaker will be asked 2-5 questions from the audience (not from me), you will be graded based on the questions you ask. If you don't ask any questions across any of the presentations, your grade will suffer.

Grading Rubric

There are two parts to this assignment, giving the presentation and asking questions. In order to satisfy the latter, you must ask intelligent questions to the speaker.

For the presentation, it must be between 5 and 10 minutes, not including questions (outside this time period will result in the loss of a letter grade). The slides will be graded for readability, organization, clarity and content while your presentation will be graded based on volume, speed, eye-contact and clarity of thought.
